4TH INTERNATIONAL DAY
OF SPORT FOR DEVELOPMENT AND PEACE

H.S.H. Prince Albert II of Monaco

As Head of State, Olympian, IOC member, Patron of 'Peace and Sport' and the World Olympians Association, I welcome this initiative which is naturally rooted in the values promoted by the Principality of Monaco through its involvement in the promotion of peace through the sport movement.

This day is part of the International Day of Sport for Development and Peace, which was jointly initiated by the UN and the IOC.

Sport is an essential vehicle to achieve the UN's 2030 Agenda to build a more peaceful world and to educate young people, who in numerous cases have a lack of structure in life.

*I am of course thrilled that the #WhiteCard operation is recognized by international organizations, as demonstrated by the high number of initiatives launched throughout the globe to mark this day. The white card has become a symbol of peace.

Princess Charlene and myself thank everyone who took part in the #Whitecard operation all over the world, and for their involvement in making society a fairer, more tolerant and peaceful place.

Joël Bouzou
President and Founder

The international community, activated by Peace and Sport from the Principality of Monaco, engaged this year in a successful mobilization, which proved that sport generates positive social change in the world. On the 4th edition of the International Day of Sport for Development and Peace, more than 43 million people were reached with the #WhiteCard campaign.

The 2017 #WhiteCard campaign successfully portrayed the universality of sport and brought together diverse groups of people. For the first time a great number of involved leaders and decision makers actively participated in the campaign. In an unprecedented way this year, national and international sport institutions, including the 2024 Olympic Bids LA2024 and Paris2024 supported our efforts.

In an extraordinary demonstration of cooperation, this year more than 630 projects in 180 countries from 5 different continents were registered on the www.april6.org platform. Additionally, over 20 Champions for Peace led this year impactful sport-based initiatives.

I want to thank everyone who has been mobilized through sport-based initiatives and projects within the Peace and Sport vision during this 4th edition of April6 and also to invite them to be optimistic and to take leading roles promoting peace and development through sport.

L'Organisation pour la Paix par le Sport - is a neutral and independent organization based in the Principality of Monaco under the High Patronage of His Serene Highness Prince Albert II of Monaco. Since 2007 Peace and Sport aims to bring the structuring values of sport to the heart of communities and individuals in crisis throughout the world and to promote a culture of peace.

The International Day of Sport for Development and Peace (IDSDP) was created in 2013. Since then, Peace and Sport has been a pioneer in promoting it and in mobilizing as many actors as possible, such as states, sport organizations, NGO's, civil society, and the private sector. These different actors have taken part in the celebration through two main actions: organizing sport for peace projects/ events and taking part in the #WhiteCard campaign.

THE ORIGIN OF APRIL 6

At the UN headquarters in New York, on August 2013, the UN General Assembly with the support of the International Olympic Committee declared 6th of April as the International Day of Sport for Development and Peace. This resolution marked a historic step in recognizing the role of sport as a tool for erasing cultural barriers and its great potential in advancing positive social change.

April6.org is an online platform that encourages, promotes, and gathers worldwide symbolic events and sport-based initiatives carried out by a great variety of actors to celebrate the International Day of Sport for Development and Peace.

#WhiteCard is a widely-known digital campaign that cheers the general public to support the sport for development and peace movement by taking a picture holding a white card (like a referee on a playing field) and posting it on social media. Today the #WhiteCard -in contrast to the red card, which signifies the most serious offense that a sports player can commit- is recognized as an international symbol that represents the positive and constructive values of sport.

MONACO

#WHITECARD'S ECHO REACHING OUT GLOBALLY

Started in Monaco four years ago, the #WhiteCard message has echoed in countries which, more than ever, need these ideals of peace, justice, non-violence and tolerance. With that in mind, at an official event held in Monaco, Peace and Sport's President Joel Bouzou joined His Serene Highness Prince Albert II of Monaco, in calling for both athletes and citizens across the globe to participate in the 2017 #WhiteCard campaign.

Monaco's neutrality, which is rooted in sport, as well as this year's relentless support of authorities and high-level personalities from the Principality has enabled the #WhiteCard message to have international repercussions. The global impact of the campaign led us to formulate this year's #WhiteCard campaign slogan: «Show us where you play your peace» which encouraged people to take pictures of themselves with white cards against iconic global backdrops.

MEMBER STATES SHARE GLOBAL VISION AT THE UN

One of the most effective ways to address the challenges that the world faces is to envision sustainable peace through unity and partnership. This was also one of the fundamental assumptions on which Peace and Sport in collaboration with the Permanent Representative of Monaco to the United Nations, H.E Mrs Isabelle Picco organized the official launching of the International Day of Sport for Development and Peace at the United Nations Headquarters in New York.

During this joyful event, a wide range of sporting activities took place in the well-known UNHQ visitors' hall. The International Fencing Federation (FIE), the International Table Tennis Federation (ITTF), the World Taekwondo Federation (WTF), Champions for Peace, athletes, and more than 30 children were brought together to show to Member States representatives and high level diplomats the power of sport as a tool for social change and diplomacy.

THE SPORT MOVEMENT JOINS THE APRIL6 CALL AT SPORTACCORD

This year Peace and Sport has been encouraging the leading names of the entire sport world to support the peace through sport movement during SportAccord Convention 2017.

As part of the IDSDP celebrations, Peace and Sport called national and international federations, National Olympic Committees, high level athletes, representatives of the International Olympic Committee, and the 2024 Olympic Bidding to join the April6 mobilization by visiting the designated April6 booth and posing for images with #WhiteCards. In a true demonstration of support to the IDSDP, more than 300 people held a #WhiteCard and joined the different sport activities and demonstrations that took place in cooperation with the International Table Tennis Federation and the World Taekwondo Federation.

THE POWER OF SPORT DIPLOMACY

#WHITECARD BRINGS NORTH AND SOUTH KOREAN ATHLETES TOGETHER

The power of sport as a tool for diplomacy was reflected during the 2017 IIHF Ice Hockey Women's World Championship on April 6, when North and South Korean athletes stood together behind a common goal of world peace, in a memorable #WhiteCard photo.

The #WhiteCard picture organized by Peace and Sport along with the International Ice Hockey Federation (IIHF) is a considerable achievement following the latest developments in the international relations between North and South Korea. This action served as a proof of the impact that sport can have on global peace efforts.

RECONCILIATION AND PEACE THROUGH BASKETBALL

One of the most inspiring moments of this April 6 edition took place in Bogotá, Colombia. At this occasion a group of girls from Chocó, a department known for a high presence of armed groups, and a group from Bogotá played together in a basketball match and stood together for a #WhiteCard picture.

This symbolic match organized by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs is part of President Juan Manuel Santos's commitment to use sport as a tool for reconciliation following the peace agreement with the guerrilla group FARC. In a strong demonstration of support to April 6, President Santos, 2016 Nobel Peace Prize Laureate, together with Mr. Joel Bouzou, President of Peace and Sport, held up a #WhiteCard during the World Summit of Nobel Peace Laureates.
